

Make Your Peace with God

"In biological history, no organism has survived long if its environment became in some way unfit for it, but no organism before man has deliberately polluted its own environment." — Rachel Carson in "Silent Spring."

By PAUL PULITZER

Concerned Americans must stop wishful thinking about the impossible. They must make up their minds to face up to one, single, hard reality. Until and unless our deaf, dumb, and blind "great silent majority" wakes up long enough to realize that the International Money Power has enveloped them in its blood-sucking tentacles, and then are willing to grapple with it to save their own lives, the fate of these United States of America is a foregone conclusion. It is going to die. In fact, if we refuse to lift our brothelian press, radio, and TV-mesmerized heads out of the sand to face up to the harsh realities of life ahead of us, every man, woman, and child in America, as well as on earth, and regardless of race, creed, or color, will be dead within the next 28 years. Even to a sick society such as ours, this alternative should act like an alarm clock. Whether it will, is something over which we can no longer entertain any illusions.

Our International Money Power-abused planet is doomed. Because we have lost respect for and have no more faith in the Law of God and the Law of Nature, and thus have not had the mental, moral, spiritual, and physical courage to take back from the International Money Power that which belongs to God and to us as His children on earth, it is fated to rotate on its already wobbling axis as another dead planet in space until subterranean convulsions will shake it into particles of dust. As sure as there is an Almighty God in Heaven and as certain as night follows the day, this will happen before the end of this turbulent century.

This apocalyptic prognostication is not predicated upon illusionary doomsday soothsayers. It is based upon the general consensus of studied opinion now being publicly voiced by some of the world's most distinguished scientists, biologists, geologists and environmental control experts. It is not, however, coincidental that this general consensus of scientific opinion confirms biblical prophecy and the more than 400 warnings delivered to all mankind by the Mother of God in each of Her apparitional appearances on earth since 1830 A.D., each witnessed, certified to, and recorded, but each ignored, ridiculed, or buried under an avalanche of deliberately-contrived, theological misinterpretation. Just as man and the International Money Power enslaving him refuses to heed biblical and supernatural admonitions, it is not likely either will bother to listen to or believe in the warnings of environmental science. Man, as well as the evil power that controls and motivates his deplorable way of life, will live long enough to regret this capricious folly. But, by that time, it will be too late to make amends. God, angered by man's inability to listen to reason, will exact long over-due payment from all mankind for failing Him, while He engages Satan, in the form of the International Money Power, in a titanic battle-to-the-finish on earth. This will be Armageddon. It is closer than we realize!

All living things on this planet will not go out with a thermonuclear bang. This is not likely because, to begin with, the spectre of thermonuclear extermination has been a fraud right from the very beginning of the atomic age. This satanic plot was so designed and implemented as to reap tremendous profits out of thermonuclear research and development, to fragmentize and then polarize the world into antagonistic enclaves, and, finally, by effectuating such a division making it easier for the International Money Power to corral the whole world into a totalitarian, world super-government owned by them. The framework for this new world order has already been constructed. Meanwhile, these off-springs of the devil are not about to trigger a thermonuclear holocaust to wipe out their satanic dream and themselves along with it. What is now almost certain however, is that ALL life on earth will die out with a gasp. All because man, in his cybernetically-induced, paranoical obsession with materialistic consumerism in order to acquire pseudo-social status through his fanatical acquisition of creature comforts, is unable to realize that, by this behaviorial pattern, he is not only aiding and abetting the evil forces who are hell-bent on exploiting and enslaving him, but is also thereby hastening the day of his own extinction. He is actually helping the International Money Power to poison the air he breathes, the water he drinks, the soil that produces his food, and the food that he eats. Consequently, man is not only his own worst enemy, but is also the mortal enemy of all other life forms on earth.

To acquire dollar-status and the pseudo-sense of power that it brings, man has become a filthy animal wallowing in an environmental garbage dump, while the International Money Power responsible for the assassination of his environment and the pollution of his mind, appeases its insatiable appetite for more and more profits with which to perpetuate its already corrupted power. That the Intl. Money Power will perish along with the life forms it exploits and contaminates, does not concern them. Because these satanic worshippers of Mammon have been absolutely corrupted by their absolute power over man, they actually believe that they are more powerful than the laws of God and Nature and that, being the offsprings of Satan, they will survive any global annihilation of life on earth. This is the kind of lunacy absolute power generates. But, man, because he meekly permits himself to aid and abet this kind of insanity, is not much better. The best that can be said for him is that he has degenerated into a mental castrate because of greed.

The assassin of our environment is the International Money Power which, through its absolute control of our national economy, owns almost all of the production facilities responsible for our catastrophic, environmental pollution. In turn, the consumer products produced by these facilities, including the fuels used to operate some of them, also augment environmental contamination. In the United States alone, for example, every year 7 million automobiles, 20 million tons of paper, 48 billion cans, and 26 billion bottles and jars are discarded. Over one million acres of invaluable greenery is paved-over every year, over 133 million tons of smoke and noxious fumes is belched into the air we breathe, trillions of gallons of waste water as well as billions of tons of organic and chemical pollutants are permitted to seep into our brooks, lakes, rivers, estuaries, and oceans and enough pesticides and other lethal chemicals are used to produce our food to wipe out every living thing on earth!

In New York City, for example, over 8 million pounds of carbon monoxide and millions of pounds of carbon dioxide are let up into the atmosphere daily. And, when the poisonous air content over the city rises to 0.2 to 0.4 parts per million, about 20 people a day die from exposure to contaminated air. It is the same throughout our country and it is getting much worse with each passing day.

Here is what some of the world's leading environmental scientists have to say about the condition of our environment:

"The spread of radioactive dust; the long journey of DDT from someone's rose garden to the shell-less eggs of unborn birds and the bones of unborn children; the new, resistant strains of venereal disease and malaria, which are robbing us of our recent conquest of these dangers; the knowledge that man's activities can alter the temperature of the earth, create storms of inestimable strength, pollute the oceans as well as the small lakes and streams that are dying throughout the civilized world; all have brought home to us that the earth is an island. Now the whole world is coming to realize the interconnectedness between the way man lives and whether or not their children and children's children will have a habitable world. Not war, but a plethora of man-made things disposable, indestructible beer cans; too much industrial waste in the lakes and streams, from antibiotics designed to protect egg-laying fowls to pesticides designed to protect the orange crop is threatening to strangle us, suffocate us, bury us in their debris and by-products of our technologically inventive and irresponsible age."

"We synthesized and disseminated new insecticides — before anyone learned that they also kill birds and might be harmful to people. We produced synthetic detergents and put billions of pounds into our surface waters — before we realized that they would not be degraded in disposal systems and would pollute our water supplies. For a number of years we spread radioactive fallout across the globe — before we learned that the resulting biological risks made it too dangerous to continue. We have unwittingly killed thousands of sheep in testing our chemical weapons and have triggered unanticipated earthquakes with our nuclear tests . . ."

"Unless America awakens, we and our children will be in deep trouble . . ."

"We are terribly close to a major ecological catastrophe unless we take drastic steps to correct our environmental pollution. It is a race whether we run out of potable water or breathable air first. It has gotten so bad we are beginning to get air pollution products from Japan on the West Coast of the United States and all the world has DDT. You know, it is found in polar bears in the Arctic and penguins in the Antarctic. And that does not even begin to talk about radioactive material . . ."

The foregoing quotes out of public statements made by environmental scientists are bad enough. However, on record, it is much worse. Our air, our water, and our soil is going fast. So fast, in fact, that according to these very same scientists, we will have had it by the end of this century. Moreover, this condition is not peculiar to the U.S. alone. It is world-wide in scope. So much so, in fact, that, even if we did succeed in cleaning up our own environment, if the same isn't done all over the world we will have accomplished nothing. Consequently, as this problem affects all nations and all peoples on earth, it is the one problem which could bring the world together in peace to accomplish a mutual effort on behalf of all mankind. Especially, because this lethal problem transcends ideo-political differences and pragmatic considerations. It transcends racial barriers as well. However, because such independent unity in global effort would be inimical to the best interests of the International Money Power, it follows that it will block such a combined assault upon environmental pollution around the world. And, for the simple reason that, before the whole world can ever get together to decontaminate the environment, and thus save all forms of life on earth, the absolutely corrupted power of this Synagogue of Satan would have to be smashed to bits first.
